POTTERS GET WAR WAGES IN PEACE TIME, W. E. WELLS SAYS

Labor Committee Report Hits Collective Bargaining.

PAY DAY WORRY

Relations With N. B. O. P. Less Peaceful, Employers Told.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(Special to The Review.)—Relations between the United States Pottery Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters have been "less peaceful and pleasant during 1928 than for any year since the war period," according to the annual report of the labor committee compiled by W. E. Wells, Newell, W. Va., and read by Secretary-Treasurer Charles F. Goodwin at the general war manufacturers' fifteenth annual convention which closed yesterday.

The report charges that collective bargaining between employers and employees has been "a failure." In the pottery industry during the last six or seven years because "the Brotherhood has failed to meet changing conditions, with disastrous results."

Text of Report.

"Our relations with labor have been less peaceful and pleasant during 1928 than for any year since the war period, when the heavy demand for our products, combined with the scarcity of labor, placed us largely at the mercy of a certain element of labor. Frequent demands were then made for easier conditions and higher wage rates. These were quite generally granted, because we could not well afford interruptions, and we could pass on the added cost to the trade."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S message to congress asks for fifteen cruisers, explaining that a big navy is no bar to the Kellogg peace pact. That's true, and it wouldn't make much difference if it were a bar. A navy is a reality. A peace pact is a piece of paper.

Those that prattle about peace, when there is no safe peace except in protection, should consider the 60,000,000 Japanese, living beside more than 500,000,000 Chinese.

Chinese as a race are probably abler than the Japanese.

But Japan dominates China and stands an equal among the nations. China stands nowhere. The Japanese know how to protect themselves. Desiring peace, they are ready to fight, if necessary.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE says this country is not "militaristic or imperialistic."

Certainly not, but it is an empire, a good solid one, all tied together, from the northwestern tip of Alaska to the southeastern tip of Florida.

And it means to be ready for unpleasant approaches by anybody that is militaristic.

THE president puts it mildly when he tells congress "the country can regard the present with satisfaction and anticipate the future with optimism."

The birds told Alexander that the only thing they feared was that the sky might fall on them.

The only thing Americans have to fear is their own foolishness.

CITY TAX LEVY FOR NEXT YEAR FIXED AT $24.70

Increase Due to Municipal-School Rate Boost.

WELLSVILLE HIGH State, County and Township Figures are Reduced.

East Liverpool's tax levy for 1929 has been advanced from $23.90 to $24.70 on $1,000 property valuation, County Auditor Elmer E. Walker announced today.

The boost is partially due to increases of 150 mills each in the school and municipal levies. This total was offset to some extent by the .50 mill reduction in the state levy, a .50 mill cut in the county levy and a .22 mill slash in the township levy, or a total reduction of 1.32 mills, thus making the net increase .58 mills.

East Liverpool is not the only taxing district in the county granted an increased school levy. Forty-one other districts also show advances over last year's figures. Nine of the 12 corporations in the county also have increased rates. New Waterford and Hanover are the only incorporated towns in which governmental levies did not call for additional millage.

Township Levies Increased.

The township levy was increased in 51 districts, decreased in 16 and unchanged in one.

The highest rate, $29.75 has been fixed for Wellsville. New Waterford is next with $29.20. The lowest levy is that of Unity No. 4 school district, with $14.20 while Wayne township has the second lowest, $15.70.

The Summitville school district which approved a bond issue and a tax levy at the November election has the highest school rate, $12.93. East Palestine, with $11.92, is next. The lowest school levy, $2.54, will be paid by property owners in Unity No. 4 district. Kensington has the second lowest levy for schools, $2.92.

Salem township has the highest township rate with $6.39. The lowest township rate, $1.97, is credited to Wayne. The lowest village rate is $1.03 in Hanoverton.

The tax rate in Liverpool township was increased from $19.90 last year to $22.60 this year. The levy in the East Liverpool school district, outside the city, dropped from $21.10 to $21. The St. Clair township levy, $19.50, is unchanged.

Had it not been for local increases, Auditor Walker pointed out, the tax rate in every district of the county would have been decreased at least $1.10 this year because of reductions in the state and county levies. In 37 districts of the county, he said, this saving was not only taken up by increases in local expenses but an additional amount was also levied.

Detroit Man Also Admits Second Killing at Scranton, Pa.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The body of 7-year-old Joseph Storrell, who was kidnaped from New York's East Side on November 17, was found today by searchers in a swamp near Secaucus, N. J., following the confession in Detroit of Pete Kudzinowski that he had murdered a child near Secaucus.

The man captured in Detroit had confessed that he had abducted the child, slit his throat from ear to ear and hid the body in the lonely, frost-covered meadows.

Slit Child's Throat.

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Peter Kudzinowski, 26, alias Roy Lambert, alias Roy Rogers, sat in police headquarters today and boastfully told how he kidnaped 7-year-old Joseph Storrell in New York, and murdered the boy in a New Jersey swamp. He also confessed, police say, to the murder of Harry Quinn, in Scranton, Pa., in 1924.

Kudzinowski was arrested a few days ago as a "Golden Rule" drunk, to be released when he had sobered up. A maudlin boast, overheard by detectives, led to his confession.

"If they knew what I'd done, they would never let me out of here," Kudzinowski was heard to remark to another prisoner.

He was taken before Inspector Fred Frahm of the homicide squad and after questioning told of the murders "to clear his conscience."

Investigate Pennsylvania Crime.

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—That Peter Kudzinowski might have been telling the truth when he told Detroit police yesterday that he murdered Harry Quinn here in March, 1924, was made known today by the authorities of Mineoka, in Lackawanna township, near here.

Mineoka authorities said that Harry Quinn, 29, disappeared in 1924 and no trace of him has ever been found by relatives. It was never reported though that he was murdered until Kudzinowski made such a statement in Detroit yesterday.

They were arrested when Police Captain Conley and Patrolman Curran raided an East Third street rooming house last night.

Ralph McClelland arrested by Fireman Powers on a charge of fast and reckless driving, yesterday, was fined $2 and costs.

When they came near the freight sheds, Frankel said, the men robbed him of $17,000 in diamonds and $1,700 in money.

The thugs disappeared in the crowd.

Just before boarding the train last night Kelley issued a denial of his earlier confession in the Knaak case. He is also held as a suspect in the Edna Kelley singing case.

Three Men are Injured in Toronto Crash.

Fred Ryan, A. J. Brown and George Thompson, Toronto barbers, narrowly escaped death or serious injury at 1:20 yesterday afternoon when their motor coach was demolished by a Pennsylvania freight engine at the Loretta avenue crossing in Toronto.

All three were cut about the face and arms by flying glass while Ryan, injured in a previous accident early Sunday, also suffered a bruised knee. John Wolbert, watchman at the crossing, said the heavy train was coming "up the drag" from the lower end of town at a speed of about 20 miles an hour. The Essex car, owned and driven by Brown, was proceeding west on Loretta avenue and nearly cleared the northbound track when the engine caught it in the rear, spun it around and knocked it off the track.

Wolbert stood in the middle of the crossing with a "stop" sign, he claims. It is supposed that Brown heard the train but tried to beat it across. One of the passengers claimed Wolbert was not at the crossing.

The body of the car was demolished, the left side and rear being torn off. Chassis was uninjured except the left front wheel broken when it was thrown around against the engine. The car was removed to the O'Leary garage and the train proceeded after the crossing was cleared.

The injured men were removed to their homes following first aid treatment.

High school football players, cheer leaders, instructors and the high school band members were guests of the club Tuesday night in the First Christian church. Superintendent S. E. Daw, Principal Hilton E. Alexander, Coach Dave Evans, Faculty Manager Groves and Don Hoover, musical supervisors, were guests.

CO-OPERATIVE MINE SUCCESS

Salineville Business is Operated by Employees.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—How practical co-operation has succeeded in the bituminous coal mining industry in one outstanding instance is told in a story published today by Daily Metal Trade, Cleveland.

Back in 1925 the Sterling Coal Co. Ltd., operating a mine at Salineville, was losing money and a new co-operative plan was devised.

To continue to operate under the Jacksonville scale of $7.50 a day, was futile and even with a materially lower scale no hope of eliminating the operating losses was entirely justified. Markets were being seized by operators of richer veins in Kentucky and West Virginia and the only recourse that appeared at all reasonable was suspension of all operations at Salineville. To close the mine was as discouraging as to continue operation. That would have tied up capital and wasted investment.

Then came the idea of selling the mine, worth $125,000, to the miners. The miners were bankrupt. Yet this plan actually worked.

"Eagerly returning to work in their own mine in July, 1925, they forthwith dropped the wage scale from $7.50 to $5, jumped the efficiency of their efforts 40 per cent, and inside of two months raised their wages back to the $7.50 basis. And today, nearly three and one-half years after these miners embarked on their unique economic venture, they are receiving pay at a $ rate. Work has been steady and uninterrupted save for Sundays and holidays, and a day or so each fall to shoot rabbits. Of the 135 miners comprising the original group, death has taken five, six have left for various reasons and 124 enthusiastic partners remain. Every one of these has a substantial equity in his own company."

Miners Formed Company. The miners, in order to buy the property, organized a partnership without individual liability called John M. Hirst & Co., using the name of one of their foremen. The price paid, $125,000, included all lease holdings and other assets and equipment. The plan called for small regular payments from wages over a long period of time. Each partner or miner was required to make an initial payment of $100. Monthly installments of $25 were deducted from the wages.

The spirit of co-operation which animated this entire program is illustrated by the arrangement that reduced installment payments to $1.65 a day for each day's work in the event that the total should drop below 15. From the time that operations were taken over by the miners, employment has been steady and uninterrupted, a record unequalled in the history of the bituminous coal industry. In the three and one-half year period since the purchase of the property was undertaken by the miners, the Sterling Coal Co. Ltd., has received $800 from every member of the partnership, of which somewhat less than $200 has been absorbed by interest and the remainder, around $700 has been applied against the principle.

Company Marketed Output.

The coal miners designated one of their officials, whose office is at Cleveland, to act as general manager of the mine. This official bought supplies and kept the books of the coal mine, a very nominal charge being made for these services in working out the details of management, the operating officials worked in conjunction with a committee of seven miners.

The Sterling Coal Co. Ltd., marketed the output of the mine on a fixed brokerage basis.

The miners have shown every effort to maintain the equipment to the maximum of efficiency and they are exceedingly prudent in their purchases of new machinery. Some $15,000 for modernization has been spent in the past two years, new electrical equipment and screens becoming the property of the miners, but being paid for on the installment plan the same as the mine itself, such expenditures being added to the principle.

Get Your Vegetables in Liquid Form!

DO LETLESS you know there are valuable dietary qualities in vegetables, but not all of us get enough fresh vegetables, and one soon tires of a "vegetable diet." A very easy way to remedy this is to get a little syrup pepsin. Take a spoonful occasionally and you stimulate the inner system. Your keener appetite, and perfect assimilation of whatever you eat will soon show you are on the right track! Your elimination will become more thorough and regular.

It isn't necessary to give up things you like to eat; or eat a lot of other things because you "ought to." The syrup pepsin can establish that perfect balance without dieting. And how pure syrup pepsin tones the stomach, liver, and bowels! You'll soon discover you can eat anything. Your chronic recurring constipation spells will disappear. Anybody who will take this simple precaution will go month after month without need of the powerful purges so frequently needed in the past.

Make a test of this wonderful vegetable product. Dr. Caldwell first used it in 1875. Today, you cannot name a druggist who hasn't this famous prescription always on hand, all put up, directions enclosed. Nothing is so wonderful for children, too; it is an ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin that just about insures the health of young or old.

LEETONIA TRUCK DRIVER, INJURED IN CRASH, ASKS $75,000 DAMAGES

Ardia M. Rohrer Sues
Erie Railroad Company
as Aftermath of Collision on July 7.

LISBON, O., Dec. 6.—As an aftermath of an automobile-train crash at the Washington street railroad crossing, Leetonia, on July 7, when his motor truck was demolished by a freight train, Ardia M. Rohrer, 25, Leetonia, has filed a suit in common pleas court against the Erie Railroad company, asking $75,000 damages for personal injuries.

Rohrer, hauling flue dust in his truck from the Hanna furnace plant, had driven to a point near the Erie tracks, when he stopped and waited for a train to pass. He claims that he listened for a whistle or signal of any other train before he attempted to drive across, and as the tracks were obscured from his view by freight cars, he was not aware of the approach of a freight train.

Rohrer alleges he was so seriously injured that he was in a hospital for months. His hip was dislocated, his pelvis bone broken and internal injuries sustained. Rohrer claims that he earned $19 a day before he was injured.

ASKS SCHOOL BUS FOR THREE TOTS

Edward Hagan, a Hanover township farmer, has filed an action in the common pleas court, asking a writ of mandamus directing the board of education of Hanover township to provide means of transportation for his three children to and from school.

Hagan says that the board of education of the township is charged by law with transporting his minor children to the school, and the board has agreed, with the sanction of the Co-

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action:
it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations.
Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions.

East Liverpool — America's Pottery Center

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1928.

Pottery Spokesman Resigns

After 24 years' service as the recognized spokesman of the American ceramic industry, W. E. Wells, who maintains his legal residence in Newell, W. Va., has declined reappointment as chairman of the labor committee of the United States Pottery's association, according to dispatches from New York City, where the organization's fiftieth annual meeting adjourned last night.

Appointment of Joseph M. Wells, retiring president of the association, to fill the vacancy, was announced by the new chairman, Malcolm W. Thompson, of East Liverpool. Thus son succeeds father as head of the committee which represents the general ware manufacturers in wage scale negotiations with the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

The action of Mr. Wells is prompted, it is believed, by the fact that he is perhaps the busiest man in the ceramic industry. He will not divorce himself from activities of the association, for he is one of the pillars of an industry on which the East Liverpool district is dependent.

Few, if any, have devoted more time to the study of the pottery business than Mr. Wells, who, in every sense of the term, is a self-made man. From bookkeeper in the old River road plant of the Homer Laughlin company to secretary-treasurer, general manager and guiding genius of the world's largest pottery plants has been the progress made by the Newell manufacturer whose life reads like an Horatio Alger story.

And besides knowing pottery manufacturing from A to Z, he has made a study of the tariff question. The able manner in which he has represented the industry at Washington in matters pertaining to protection of the home markets has impressed congressional committees.

Notwithstanding the demands made by his business interests, the retiring labor committee chairman has been on the job whenever the East Liverpool district, including Newell, which he founded, needed him. The Y. M. C. A., Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, East Liverpool Country club and, during the 1917-18 emergency, the War Chest committee are among the many organizations which have sought his sound counsel. And, too, he served as a member of the West Virginia—old Virginia debt commission.

W. E. Wells, a man among men, democratic in his ways and an apostle of square-dealing, is easily the East Liverpool district's outstanding citizen.

U. S. and World Court

President Coolidge's unexpected move to renew negotiations with the powers looking toward American entrance into the world court, of which Charles Evans Hughes now is one of the judges, frankly puzzles Washington.

The reason is at hand. There is a reservation, known as No. 5, attached as one of the conditions of acceptance of the world court protocol by the United States. It provides that the world court may not render advisory opinions, without consent of the United States, on any dispute in which America has or claims to have an interest. In the opinion of the world powers America thus would be given an absolute veto over advisory opinions, a privilege not accorded other adherents.

So administration senators, even those most ardently supporting the court proposal, do not see how American adhesion can be secured unless the senate or the powers backtrack on this reservation.

President Coolidge is represented as of the opinion the world powers will come to view the American position favorably, and he has said he hopes to press the world court issue for settlement this winter. It is possible that the powers will come around to the American view by providing that unanimous consent must be obtained in the council of the League of Nations for the court to give an advisory opinion. The United States then, although a non-member of the league, would be extended identical privileges in this respect with council members, under the proposal. And such a plan probably would be acceptable to Mr. Coolidge.

The motive behind Mr. Coolidge's latest move, in view of the practical certainty that time will not permit him to conclude any negotiations which he may initiate, was the cause of no little speculation in the capital. The generally accepted theory was that Mr. Coolidge designed his move as a friendly gesture to clean up the problem before he steps out of office on March 4. Further, he may also have been influenced by the recent election of Mr. Hughes as a judge of the world court, and negotiations of the Kellogg Briand anti-war pact.

At any rate his gesture has enlivened international discussions in Washington more than anything else has done in a year. But, as always, Mr. Coolidge keeps his plans and his reasons to himself, willing to wait until the time is ripe before pressing for an issue. In this respect, perhaps he is making a wise move. And it is reasonably safe to believe that whatever it was motivated the president, his reasoning was sound and logical.

Demand For Airplanes

Indicative of the demands for airplanes, an individual order for 50 machines was announced yesterday at the Chicago aeronautical exposition. So great is the demand for planes that manufacturers are paying little or no attention to those refinements which have made the modern automobile much sought after.

Volumes are contained in that declaration. Where a public is so keen for this new means of transportation that all it cares for is a ship which is safe, which is sturdy and which can be operated economically, there is air-mindedness which will take the airplane farther in the next decade than the motor car went in 25 years.

Enclosed airplanes, it appears, have done away with the need for goggles, heavy apparel and a lot of the other faddish, just as the enclosed motor car did away with all the quaint trappings which were associated with the automobile in its infancy. Comfort has been attained in the airplane in a comparatively short space of time. Here the manufacturers took a lesson from the makers of motor cars.

And while one reads of the rapid stride of the airplane in popularity, one is minded of the belief of forward-looking business men that the time is coming when landing fields will dot the country much as the wayside garage does along the arterial highways today.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—When Jackson Barnett was hunting and fishing with members of his Creek Indian tribe out in Indian territory nearly thirty years ago he could not foresee that he was to become the central figure in a dozen lawsuits, belated bridegroom, and a millionaire. Barnett lived the nomadic life of the primitive Indian and was content. But about 1900 the federal government decided that it would be advisable to allot to each Indian certain specific lands rather than have the tribe wandering about their reservation. So Barnett was allotted 160 acres of land. But he did not like the ways of the white man and had no interest in settling down and farming his acres like an American farmer.

Instead he joined the Crazy Snake band, a group of like-minded aborigines and continued his wonted life, living in tepees, hunting and fishing.

Something else was in store for him and a lot of other people—especially lawyers—for a dozen years later the Cushing Pool, then the largest oil well in the world, came in on his quarter section to which he had previously given a lease to a drilling company.

No one save his few Indian cronies had ever paid any attention to Jackson Barnett up to that time. But Anna Lowe, a widow of those parts who dabbled in oil leases, found out very early about the big oil strike and looked up the records to determine ownership. She discovered that one Jackson Barnett, bachelor of about fifty years of age was the Creek owner. She set out in search of him and located and married him. To do so she drove him across the state line into Kansas where a civil ceremony was performed. Indian territory parsons having declined to unite the couple. Then, to make it more binding, she took him over into Missouri for another ceremony. Then they went to Oklahoma.

This was attended by some publicity and one David Barnett materialized out of a clear sky. He declared that he was half-brother to Jackson and he sued to have the marriage set aside, have Jackson declared incompetent and have a guardian appointed for him. Others claiming to be close relatives intervened in the suit, all interested in getting rid of the bride and getting their hands on Jackson Barnett's money.

Well, they did not succeed in getting the marriage annulled but did succeed in getting Oklahoma to appoint a guardian to have charge of Jackson's funds. He and his bride were allowed only $1,000 a week income. The remainder of the oil royalties were allowed to pile up, the guardian investing them in Liberty bonds. The $1,000 a week has been coming in steadily and, in addition, the royalties in the hands of the guardian have reached approximately $2,000,000.

Mrs. Anna Laurie Lowe Barnett took her husband—some twenty or twenty-five years her senior—to California. He had made a gift to her of a considerable sum and with that she bought a ranch and built a house near Los Angeles.

In defending suits of the Barnett relatives (of whom Jackson had never heard until oil was discovered on his land) the Barnetts spent $165,000 in attorneys' fees. The government, acting on behalf of the Indian, sued to recover these sums on the ground that the Indian had been taken advantage of. Also, suit was entered by the United States to recover the money Mrs. Barnett had invested in California. Then Mrs. Barnett entered suit to have the Oklahoma guardianship set aside.

It was she who transacted all of the business as Jackson could neither read nor write, signing all papers with a thumb mark.

Mrs. Barnett was successful in having the Oklahoma guardianship set aside but not until the guardian had won a suit which he brought to have declared void a gift which Barnett had agreed to make to Bacone college, an institution under Baptist auspices designed for the education of Indians. After saving this gift amounting to $50,000 the guardian was named but another had been appointed by the state of California because of the pendency of the suit in that jurisdiction to recover the sums Mrs. Barnett had invested. While the Oklahoma guardian had been appointed because of alleged mental incompetency, the one in California was appointed because of age and illiteracy. Barnett speaks practically no English, employing the Creek tongue.

In all the litigation thus far no one has succeeded in having the marriage set aside and it now seems well nailed down. There was the Kansas marriage, then the Missouri marriage, and finally years of residence together in Oklahoma and California constituting a common law marriage. Jackson Barnett is somewhere between seventy-five and eighty years old now and should he die these suits still are pending the widow's dower right amounting to one-half, under Oklahoma law, could not be disturbed. This would amount to a million dollars.

Meantime Jackson seems to be entirely happy. He has enough to eat off and on and a big automobile. The $1,000 a week comes in regularly and the royalties continue to pile up. He never has quite understood what it is all about.

The lawsuits—some of them—are still pending. For instance, the alleged blood relations continue their fight. They have entered into a contract with a group of lawyers whereby they agree to give the lawyers half of anything they can get.

Q. When horizontal stripes of blue and red are drawn across an envelope or around its border, is it necessary to write "Air Mail" on the envelope? N. L. C.

A. If sufficient postage has been affixed, the post office department recognizes the striped envelope as one to be sent by air mail.

Q. Has the United States a law fixing the load line of a vessel? N. S.

A. This country is the only maritime nation of importance that has not such a law but permits its ships to go to sea with no Federal precautions as to the depths to which they may load. American shipping interests are dependent on foreign rules and regulations for the fixing of load lines for their vessels and must make use of such regulations if they are to avoid penalties and costly delays in the ports of nations which have recognized by their laws the importance of this safeguard to life and property.

Q. Was the ground where the White House stands given to the government? M. O. N.

A. The White House grounds were not donated. They were purchased from Davy Burns.

Q. How much sweeter than sugar is saccharine? H. J.

Turning Back Pages of Memory

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—When Jackson Barnett was hunting and fishing with members of his Creek Indian tribe out in Indian territory nearly thirty years ago he could not foresee that he was to become the central figure in a dozen lawsuits, belated bridegroom, and a millionaire.

Barnett lived the nomadic life of the primitive Indian and was content. But about 1900 the federal government decided that it would be advisable to allot to each Indian certain specific lands rather than have the tribe wandering about their reservation. So Barnett was allotted 160 acres of land. But he did not like the ways of the white man and had no interest in settling down and farming his acres like an American farmer.

Instead he joined the Crazy Snake band, a group of like-minded aborigines and continued his wonted life, living in tepees, hunting and fishing.

Something else was in store for him and a lot of other people—especially lawyers—for a dozen years later the Cushing Pool, then the largest oil well in the world, came in on his quarter section to which he had previously given a lease to a drilling company.

No one save his few Indian cronies had ever paid any attention to Jackson Barnett up to that time. But Anna Lowe, a widow of those parts who dabbled in oil leases, found out very early about the big oil strike and looked up the records to determine ownership. She discovered that one Jackson Barnett, bachelor of about fifty years of age was the Creek owner. She set out in search of him and located and married him. To do so she drove him across the state line into Kansas where a civil ceremony was performed. Indian territory parsons having declined to unite the couple. Then, to make it more binding, she took him over into Missouri for another ceremony. Then they went to Oklahoma.

This was attended by some publicity and one David Barnett materialized out of a clear sky. He declared that he was half-brother to Jackson and he sued to have the marriage set aside, have Jackson declared incompetent and have a guardian appointed for him. Others claiming to be close relatives intervened in the suit, all interested in getting rid of the bride and getting their hands on Jackson Barnett's money.

Well, they did not succeed in getting the marriage annulled but did succeed in getting Oklahoma to appoint a guardian to have charge of Jackson's funds. He and his bride were allowed only $1,000 a week income. The remainder of the oil royalties were allowed to pile up, the guardian investing them in Liberty bonds. The $1,000 a week has been coming in steadily and, in addition, the royalties in the hands of the guardian have reached approximately $2,000,000.

Mrs. Anna Laurie Lowe Barnett took her husband—some twenty or twenty-five years her senior—to California. He had made a gift to her of a considerable sum and with that she bought a ranch and built a house near Los Angeles.

In defending suits of the Barnett relatives (of whom Jackson had never heard until oil was discovered on his land) the Barnetts spent $165,000 in attorneys' fees. The government, acting on behalf of the Indian, sued to recover these sums on the ground that the Indian had been taken advantage of. Also, suit was entered by the United States to recover the money Mrs. Barnett had invested in California. Then Mrs. Barnett entered suit to have the Oklahoma guardianship set aside.

It was she who transacted all of the business as Jackson could neither read nor write, signing all papers with a thumb mark.

Mrs. Barnett was successful in having the Oklahoma guardianship set aside but not until the guardian had won a suit which he brought to have declared void a gift which Barnett had agreed to make to Bacone college, an institution under Baptist auspices designed for the education of Indians. After saving this gift amounting to $50,000 the guardian was named but another had been appointed by the state of California because of the pendency of the suit in that jurisdiction to recover the sums Mrs. Barnett had invested. While the Oklahoma guardian had been appointed because of alleged mental incompetency, the one in California was appointed because of age and illiteracy. Barnett speaks practically no English, employing the Creek tongue.

In all the litigation thus far no one has succeeded in having the marriage set aside and it now seems well nailed down. There was the Kansas marriage, then the Missouri marriage, and finally years of residence together in Oklahoma and California constituting a common law marriage. Jackson Barnett is somewhere between seventy-five and eighty years old now and should he die these suits still are pending the widow's dower right amounting to one-half, under Oklahoma law, could not be disturbed. This would amount to a million dollars.

Meantime Jackson seems to be entirely happy. He has enough to eat off and on and a big automobile. The $1,000 a week comes in regularly and the royalties continue to pile up. He never has quite understood what it is all about.

The lawsuits—some of them—are still pending. For instance, the alleged blood relations continue their fight. They have entered into a contract with a group of lawyers whereby they agree to give the lawyers half of anything they can get.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—A sudden after-theatre rain emphasized Manhattan's "second company" nervousness and impatience. For some reason the town becomes impatient in a shower. The other evening after a brilliant premiere, the crowd was imprisoned under the marquee by a downpour.

Broadway immediately tied itself up in a traffic knot. The quickest stepping street in the world was suddenly inert. Those shabby umbrella sellers, who appear mysteriously from nowhere two minutes after a rain, offered no comfort. It was a dreary "carriage crowd."

For a few minutes it retained a good humor. Then tant nerves began to explode. Imprecations at police and carriage callers turned to blasphemies. The usual jostling accepted good naturedly by crowds resulted in verbal spats and nasty epithets were passed.

It is no exaggeration to say the assemblage was on the brink of rioting. One stiff and stalwart—mostly stiff—gentleman mounted a chair and delivered a fiery oration on injustice, pointing out the only citizen able to depart was a high city official in a low-numbered car. That gesture is overdue, by the way.

There followed more hoots and cat-calling for the police whose number had luckily been reinforced. Before it was over an excited woman snatched an evening wrap from another woman and ground it under her heel, and to cap the well-known climax an elderly lady slumped to the sidewalk in a faint.

It was a bit of midnight madness that would probably not take place in any other American city. In Paris they cut such capers before breakfast, just for exercise. But in the big emotional crisis New York keeps its head, but disturbed by inconsequentials it flies off the handle.

And when it does the depth of mean temper is touched as may be noticed at what is considered a rank fight decision at Madison Square Garden. No matter how many ladies are present the language becomes decidedly "The Front Page."

Ohio's Burden of Insane.

Ohio's institutions for the care of insane and mentally deficient are overcrowded and the state is faced with the necessity of providing more quarters. To complicate the situation and add materially to the state's burden, Ohio is, in the words of Probate Judge Lewis D. Slusser, of Summit county, being made "nurseryland for the feeble-minded, epileptic and insane of other states."

Judge Slusser's observation arises from the fact that only one county in the state, Summit, is enabled by legislation to send patients back to their native states for treatment. At that, non-resident patients cost Summit county $20,000 annually in state institutions. Because of this state's excellent care, Judge Slusser avers, feeble-minded children are being brought here from other states and placed in Ohio institutions, where they are destined to remain many years, a constant drain on the taxpayers' purse.

It is only fair that other states care for their own mentally deficient unfortunate, as this state is doing. New York and others have legislation which enables them to meet this situation. Patients apprehended in those states are sent back to their original homes at a cost that is trivial compared to the cost of keeping them for the rest of their lives. It would require but a slight change in the present law to give Ohio this same advantage.—Columbus Dispatch.

denness. The child awakens soon after the first nap and a slight barking cough is the first evidence of trouble. The cough of a croup patient is peculiar. It has a certain metallic sound, a ringing sound.

The child suffers greatly in his breathing. It is extremely difficult to get the breath. The air whistles through the throat. There is so much swelling of the mucous membrane that there is little space through which the air can pass.

The child is likely to become feverish, the patient is flushed and the pulse is rapid. Difficult breathing frightens the youngster, he cries, is restless, and wants to be carried.

These symptoms may reappear the next night, or for two or three nights in succession. Whenever they come, however, they cause great anxiety to the parents.

In the treatment of croup, the first thing to do is to overcome the swelling of the throat. To this end it is a good thing to fill a tub with water at a temperature of about 100 degrees. Take great pains not to have the water so hot as to scald the child. Try your own elbow in the water and see if it is endurable. Keep the child in this hot bath for 15 or 20 minutes. At the same time apply cold compresses to the throat.

A hot foot bath may be helpful. To enough water to fill a basin, a teaspoonful of mustard may be added. This may draw enough blood from the upper part of the body to give relief.

RESERVATIONS FOR PAUL KOCHANSKI CONCERT AVAILABLE ON SATURDAY

Russian Violinist Will Present Civic Music Association Program Monday Night.

Reservations for the Civic Music Association concert which will be given by Paul Kochanski, Russian violinist, at the Ceramic theater next Monday night, will be available at the theater box office starting at 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

No single admission seats will be sold. Only members of the association will be entitled to tickets.

Born in the land that gave Chopin and Paderewski to the world, Kochanski began his musical studies at an early age, developing his natural talents under the careful guidance of his father. He soon learned to derive much pleasure out of his music that it compensated for the intensive work his father gave him, and at the age of nine he made his debut in Warsaw.

At fifteen he migrated from his teacher Mlynarski to Cesar Thomson in Brussels, where, three years later, at the conservatory, he won the much coveted "Premier Prix." Following this he made his London debut and was called back to the Conservatory of Music at Warsaw, where he became professor of violin.

A similar appointment followed at Petrograd, Kochanski being successor to Leopold Auer, a post which he held for three years until the wanderlust urged him to make a concert tour of Europe. He began by solo appearances with the principal orchestras in Poland. In the fall of 1920 he returned to London and appeared with the Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Albert Coates.

In 1921 he came to America at the invitation of Walter Damrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony, and it was then that his American popularity began. His playing, so dignified, reposeful and commanding, created a deep impression which he has since carried to all of the musical centers of Europe.

In France he became a special favorite and gave many concerts in Paris during the past season. Other countries to which Kochanski, his name and his fame have traveled are Germany, Russia, Spain, Greece, Turkey, Egypt, South America, Cuba and Canada. Critics everywhere pronounce his work to be at its greatest point, its highest moment, when the spirit and vigor of his youthful playing have combined with technical mastery to complete a perfect maturity in the violin art.

BILLY SUNDAY HITTING TARGET

What you gain by not becoming a Christian will be a curse to you.

Parents leaving Christ enter their souls as a permanent resident therein will throw away away cards and any liquor in the ice box.

When two persons forgive each other for wrongs against each other they have the look of heaven in their features.

Persons who refuse to forgive those who have trespassed against them have hell written in their countenances.

If any have wronged you go to them with two or more witnesses and if they refuse to right matters or agree to your apology thereafter give them a smile and half of the road and let them alone.

If you want Christ a welcome guest you must invite Him in as you do a guest whom you entertain.

How ungrateful it is for any one to keep Christ out of their lives.

A man once told me the coldest winter he ever spent anywhere was a summer that he passed in Duluth, Minn., where sometimes boats are icebound in June.

If so many trees had not been destroyed in this country we would not frequently be devastated with floods.

Some people think all they have to do as church members is to occupy a 17-inch space of a seat in it on Sundays while singing "Jesus Paid It All" as lost souls about them are going to hell so fast they can not be seen for their dust.

No one has ever really defined life and no one ever will do so.

The Bible is a revelation, not a philosophy, a poem of a science.

Mrs. Browning when once asked as to the secret of her beautiful character replied "I have a friend."

Prayer gives one a realization of God and your dependence upon Him.

Following an all-night prayer by Christ He chose His twelve disciples, people pressed Him to obtain healing virtue and He delivered his matchless sermon on the mount.

I can tell who are the praying members of the churches by the attendance in the afternoon services of revivals.

You can not have results when praying for the redemption of a soul without attempting to bring him to Christ.

A woman bringing her 32-year-old son to the kingdom declared "I have been praying for him since he was born."

You always choose whether the social whirl or the prayer meeting is going to get you.

Many persons have only second-hand experiences in prayer and therefore do not live so God can answer prayer for them.

There are about one-half or two-thirds of persons allied with churches who are not really converted.

I know that candy is good and quinine bitter by the experience of tasting them; likewise prayer can be tried and its beneficent results experienced.

In our supplications to God to act makes for our recognition of His superiority.

Our activities in all lines are but moves of self-expression which contribute to our growth and development which when utilized by acts of prayer bring us closer to God.

I have held meetings in every large city save Cleveland, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Coughed Night and Day.

John Vognue, Elberton, Ga., says: "I coughed night and day until my throat was raw and hoarse. Finally I began taking Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, my condition improved at once, and I was soon as well as ever. The very name gave me confidence that it would help me; and it did." Best for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, coughs and even whooping cough. Effective alike for children and grown persons. No opiates.

IN VITE CHRIST INTO YOUR HOME, SUNDAY URGES

"No one forces himself into a home unless he is burglar and then he is not wanted and though Jesus Christ wants to enter your soul and be welcomed as a permanent guest. He will not do so unless you ask Him in," asserted Billy Sunday in a discourse at the Second and Washington streets tabernacle last night. "Your will is sovereign and as the master of a house it is yours to admit or reject the Son of God. To let Him within means that you in this life will quit all known sin and instead acquire virtues that will fit you for breathing heavenly atmosphere."

Words from the Revelations, "Behold I stand at the door and knock. If any hear and let me in I will come in and sup" formed the scriptural foundation for his evening sermon. In the afternoon he discussed prayer, utilizing the affirmation of James as a text: "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

With many visitors, some coming as far as Steubenville and Richmond, in Jefferson county, and a large representation from Lisbon churches, the First Baptist Sunday school of this city and the W. C. T. U., more than 250 strong, in attendance, the evangelist was moved to a reciprocal state of enthusiasm.

As always he showed no compromise in his viewpoints and was clarifying in his expression of the way of salvation for those not possessing it.

Jail Bootleggers, He Urges.

In the afternoon he strongly indicated that many within the church had not met the requirements of conversion. "More than half, probably two-thirds of those holding membership in it are not born again," he said. "When I was here some years ago there were many active in the work of saving souls by doing personal work and especially by their presence at all of the meetings. Now some of these have not been here at all and many of them but two or three times."

"There is no special time for the transformation of human souls, he indicated. "Every opportunity by which this may be done should be seized by reason of the good that may be done."

Enthusied by the presence of the W. C. T. U., he again declared himself favorable to a law that would incarcerate not only the manufacturers and sellers of illicit liquor but the buyer as well.

Lisbon Church Band Plays.

Martial airs and numerous old songs were given the large audience by the First Presbyterian church band of Lisbon, some 25 in number, which coupled with the appealing renditions of the choir plus the congregational singing and the solos of Homer Rodeheaver made for an enchanting preliminary to the address of the evangelist last night.

Headed by Drum Major Eugene Turner, resplendent in a maroon uniform with gold epaulets on shoulders, white gloves on his hands and wearing high-topped boots, the elongated carrier of the directing insignia of his position gracefully led the contingent to the platform where they were given special seats by Chief Usher Will T. McNutt. While they were getting ready to play, the choir, directed by Rodeheaver, sang "Exalt His Name." Following the band numbers given under the direction of Samuel Crouse, Rodeheaver commented: "That band is good enough to be Methodist." Then Mr. Sunday himself crossed the platform and personally thanked Director Crouse. "It has been nearly 30 years since I heard those old songs," he said. "I heard many of them in the Sharon, Pa. meeting, was Crouse's reply, he referring to the fact that he had been present at many of the services of the revival held by Mr. Sunday in the Pennsylvania city in 1898.

To further acknowledge the presence in the auditorium of the Lisbon churches the Rev. C. N. Church, pastor of the First Methodist church there and a former district superintendent of the Cambridge district, was called to the platform to make the invocation.

Rodeheaver Greets Visitors.

Other ministers of Lisbon, including the Rev. J. P. Cotton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, accompanied the delegation to the tabernacle here.

"We remember many happy days spent in Steubenville," declared Rodeheaver in greeting the large number present from that city. "We are mighty glad to greet you here," he said to those in attendance from Richmond, in the same county of Jefferson.

"And we are especially delighted to have with us in a body such a large representation of that outstanding organization, the W. C. T. U., which following a course laid down by their parents and grandparents in the long ago has changed in a big way the thinking in this nation regarding the drinking of intoxicants. You yet have a work to do in aiding and abetting the educational sentiment regarding the carrying out of its full fruition the purposes of the Eighteenth amendment."

W. C. T. U. Honor Evangelist.

Rising, the women waved handkerchiefs in unison at Mr. Sunday on the platform. He instantly arose to acknowledge the salute and listened to their prepared yell which consummated in the query and the reply: "Whom do we appreciate? The Sunday party."

In addition Mr. Sunday was made an honorary life member of the local contingent and a badge was sent up to him of the well known white ribbon, it being carried to the platform by Mrs. C. B. Applegate and pinned on the evangelist by Rodeheaver. In his response, Mr. Sunday averred that he belonged to but two organizations outside of the church: The W. C. T. U., and the Sons of Veterans. He then gave vent to his viewpoints concerning those engaged in dispensing and consuming liquor at the present time following the placing of the Eighteenth amendment in the constitution.

Members of the First Baptist Sunday school were given a cordial greeting by the audience and Rodeheaver when they arose, accompanied by the pastor of the church, the Rev. A. H. O'Brien and the superintendent, Judge W. L. Lones.

High School Night Services.

The band, playing a medley of songs, including "Joy to the World," gave way to a congregational and choral rendition of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," just before Mr. Sunday began to speak. At the outset, he thanked all of the visitors as well as the local people in attendance for coming to the service.

He referred to the fact that tonight the high school pupils from East Liverpool, Wellsville, Newell and Chester, W. Va., would be in attendance at the tabernacle for the final time as visitors in bodies. Twice before the students have been present at the tabernacle and each time they have made the welkin ring with their yells and songs before the delivery of the sermon.

Wellsville high school pupils at Newell were addressed yesterday morning by Albert Peterson and Miss Florence Kinney of the evangelistic party. The former spoke at 9 a. m. and the latter at 1 p. m. They will speak on Friday in the Wellsville high school.

One of the outstanding sermons that Mr. Sunday delivers is on the theme of "Immortality." It will be given on Friday night.

"Dutch" Zellers Arrives Tonight.

Mr. Sunday again stressed the fact that women only are to be addressed by him on Saturday night at the tabernacle while men at the same time will congregate in the First Presbyterian church where members Rodeheaver, Matthews, Peterson and Locke of the evangelistic party will have charge of the service.

He was solicitous also of the meeting for women on Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church which is to be addressed by Miss Kinney on the subject "Mothers and Daughters." Mrs. Sunday will also be present at this service.

At the same hour, 2:30 o'clock—Mr. Sunday is to speak to men only at the tabernacle, he delivering what he considers his best sermon.

At the initial service it was announced by Rodeheaver that Charles "Dutch" Zellers will arrive in East Liverpool tonight. His Anti-Saloon colleague, V. A. Schreiber, has an engagement to meet him in his Canton office this afternoon while enroute here.

Choir To Sing Christmas Carols.

The afternoon sermons of Mr. Sunday are being listened to with growing interest during the entire campaign until by now the attendance has shown a marked increase.

Those present voted to hear a discourse this afternoon on "Job," the evangelist. "And I have one else on my mind, Jonah," he observed. "I shall give it on Friday afternoon."

Plans for the singing of Christmas carols on Christmas morning about various sections of the city were made at the close of the service last night by the choir following the suggestion of Rodeheaver.

Prayer Service in Tabernacle.

Another prayer service was held in the space fronting the platform at 7 o'clock last night under the direction of Alfred Peterson in which many took part. It will be a feature of the remaining days of the campaign.

Something of the versatility of Peterson, advance man of the Sunday party, who, between engagements in other cities, does everything that comes his way to further the interests of the revival, may be gathered by the fact that a night or two ago he enabled a mother to remain in the tabernacle and listen to the preaching when hurried messages were sent from the nursery for her to come and quiet her young child. Rather than break in on the evangelist and ask for the parent he hurried to the scene and, though a bachelor, took the little tot from the distressed woman and with a few steps about the room soon lulled the child into a blissful sleep.

"The Beautiful Land" was sung by the men of the choir as a further contribution to the pre-sermon program, directed by Rodeheaver, who also sang "God's Tomorrow," accompanied by Matthews.

Reference to Coolidge Message.

Members of the Ladies' Aid of the Orchard Grove Methodist Episcopal church were in attendance at the revival in the afternoon. They were introduced by Rodeheaver. The invocation was made by Rodeheaver.

tion was made by Major Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army.

Reference was made by Mr. Sunday in the evening discourse to the recent message to congress by President Coolidge in which it was pointed out that our wealth and prosperity could be lost. He emphasized that spiritual peace should keep pace with material progress.

"Our lives should be such as to cause angels to cheer and the devils to become silent," observed the evangelist.

He maintained that it is an easy matter to get acquainted with God. "All one needs to do is to publicly acknowledge that he has accepted Christ," he said. "You would let God into your souls if you really realized He wanted to come in," he suggested.

He urged the acceptance of Christ. "Christ is really God. God is in Christ and Christ in God and without Christ there is no salvation," he declared.

He then said that Christ came to earth to reveal God. If He could be fully comprehended He would not be God, he said. "Three persons in essence comprise God. We have faith in Him, having seen his Son, Christ, when on earth and we feel now the presence of the Holy Spirit," he explained.

That all impediments would be removed if only Christians, holding themselves as such, had a solemn burden of souls was affirmed by him.

The custom of putting out Christmas trees all over the streets in cities was declared by him to be a wasteful procedure and one that should be stopped in guarding the country's resources. "It takes these trees 15 years to grow," he said. "Why should they be ruthlessly destroyed with no good obtaining?"

He depreciated also the fact that millions of dollars will be spent in gifts at Christmas time by many who do not believe in the person for whom the day is commemorated.

Bible Class Session.

More than 150 persons attended the Bible class of Miss Florence Kinney yesterday afternoon when she again discussed Revelation. She declared that her teaching was based on the fact that she believed in the second coming of Christ.

She said that the book contained a total of 494 verses of which 285 directly quoted from the Old Testament prophets, while there were altogether more than 500 quotations in the book from the Old Testament. "We have already seen many of the Old Testament prophecies carried out," she said.

Don't Wait—Take Them in Time.

When Chas. McAllister, Kearny, N. J., reached the point where he had to drag his tired, aching, weary body from a well-nigh sleepless bed, he did a wise thing—bought a bottle of Foley's Kidney Pills. After taking Foley's Kidney Pills for a time I became all right, and my kidney distress, pain and weakness are all gone. Cost little. Satisfaction guaranteed. Diabetes and Bright's Disease May Be Contracted When Kidneys Are Weak

Take Steps to Strengthen Kidneys and Bladder When Nature Warns by Getting You Up Nights

The first sign of weak kidneys and bladder usually appears by getting up at night, thus spoiling your vitality and causing you to spend restless, fitful nights in interrupted sleep. This is Nature's way of telling you that something is wrong with your kidneys or bladder or both. Nature is warning you that they need attention or they may pick up diabetes, Bright's Disease or any of the many serious ailments that take hold quickly when the kidneys and bladder are in a rundown condition. Up till now, most kidney and bladder remedies were nasty-tasting medicines that left an unpleasant aftertaste in the mouth, but local druggists are now offering a new remedy, Hinkaps, put up in capsule form and absolutely guaranteed to bring quick relief to weak renal organs. Hinkaps are non-habit-forming and easy to take. They assist Nature in restoring a normal, healthy condition of the kidneys and bladder. This new remedy does not stop up the passages, but rather helps extract the poisons from the system and aids the organs in throwing off the waste at the proper times. Be sure and ask for Hinkaps by name at your druggist's.

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

"This sincere letter," says Peterson, "gave me another happy day and as nearly every mail brings praise for Peterson's Ointment, is it any wonder that I keep cheerful all the time?"
"Dear Sirs: I had a bad leg for 20 years, tried everything but no benefit. I tried Peterson's Ointment and five 35 cent boxes healed my leg. I can never praise it enough. My leg was so painful at first that I had to put fresh ointment on every two hours, night and day. It stopped the pain at once. Mrs. Mark Richards, Lake Linden, Mich."

Besides running and old sores and ulcers, Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles, eczema, itching skin, sore feet, prickly heat, sunburn, chafing, cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and scores of other ailments as any drug—anywhere will tell you. A generous box 35 cents.

SUFFERED TWENTY YEARS; THEN SHE FOUND KONJOLA

"All Else Had Failed And I Hope," Says Happy

Former Sufferer.

MRS. C. G. BLAZIER.

"What a glorious thing it is to find health again after twenty years of suffering," said Mrs. C. G. Blazier, 13 Ridgeway avenue, Dayton, Ohio. "All had failed me, and I was about to give up hope when Konjola completely restored my health."

"In all the twenty years of suffering I did not know what it was to enjoy a meal. My stomach rebelled at everything, gas formed, the pressure caused heart palpitation and severe abdominal pains. I had to get up many times at night on account of weak kidneys and my back was sore and stiff. I became weaker and weaker day by day. Medicines did not seem to reach the source of my troubles and I was very discouraged."

"I was told what Konjola had done for thousands of others and decided to give it a trial. To my surprise the first bottle brought results. When I finished the second I felt better than in twenty years. Just think what this meant to me after so many years of suffering. I have almost forgotten that my kidneys and stomach were ever disordered. I know it will do the same for others, there can be nothing to compare with Konjola."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did."—Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

Doughnuts

a sure way to the heart of any boy or man

HAVE you ever heard of a man who didn't confess to a weakness for doughnuts—that is, of course, if they have been properly fried?

The doughnut at its best has a lovely brown outside and a tender, delicate inside—without even a hint of fatty taste. To make doughnuts like this you must fry them in a delicate fat. And if you wish to know how delicate a fat can be, taste Crisco just as you taste your milk; just as you test your eggs.

Crisco's flavor is sweet and fresh and naturally it lends this sweet freshness to the doughnuts you fry in it. Moreover, Crisco fries doughnuts, or anything else, without smoking up your sweet, clean kitchen.

Doughnuts

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons
Crisco
1 egg
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
2 cups flour

2 teaspoons baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon clove
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon mace
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt

Cream sugar and Crisco together. Add well beaten egg and milk and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, cinnamon, clove, mace and salt. Add to the first mixture and mix thoroughly. Turn out on slightly floured board and roll to $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.) until a delicate brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar before serving.

This recipe makes 24 doughnuts.

Jelly Doughnuts

Follow recipe for Raised Doughnuts. After the second rising, roll on a slightly floured board to $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thickness. Cut with a cookie cutter. Put one teaspoon currant jelly in the center of one round, moisten edges with water and place another round on top. Press edges lightly together. Cover and set in a

Raised Doughnuts

$\frac{3}{4}$ cup sugar
3 tablespoons
Crisco
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup scalded milk

1 yeast cake
2 tablespoons lukewarm water
5 cups flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Add sugar, Crisco and salt to the scalded milk. When lukewarm add the yeast cake mixed with warm water. Add enough flour to make a sponge (about 2 cups). Set in a warm place to rise. When light add well beaten eggs, nutmeg and enough flour to make a soft dough. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Knead until free from large air bubbles.

This recipe makes 30 doughnuts.

POTTERY MEN GET WAR WAGES

"The penalty has since been paid, as these concessions largely still prevail. We are still paying war wages in peace times. We are still paying prices possible during a non-competitive period, that are not possible during a period of the keenest competition from countries abroad that our industry has ever encountered. Rates of wages paid pottery workers in all Europe and Japan have been reduced drastically through the past seven years, in some cases as much as fifty per cent. Their selling prices have been reduced accordingly.

"During the same period the wage rates paid American pottery workers have been reduced a trifle only and in some of the larger potteries their earning power has been substantially advanced.

Importations Increase.
"Importations of competitive goods have increased more than one hundred and ten per cent in value, and more than one hundred and fifty per cent in dozens, since 1920. American production has not increased more than ten per cent in either dollars or dozens, while American selling prices have decreased between thirty and forty per cent.

"In the fact of these figures, is it any wonder that some of our oldest and most honored members are closing their factory doors, and that others have exhausted their bank credits, and are making the fight of their lives to meet pay rolls. It is a distressing but true fact that too many of our members who are long time leaders in the industry are haunted from week end to week end by the nightmare of approaching pay day.

"This is all because we continue to maintain in some so-called skilled departments rates of wages that are extravagantly high, and in others where no skill is required we still are compelled to pay highly skilled rates of wages.

"Consequently, a situation has developed under which we pay in wages from three times to ten times as much as that paid for corresponding service in other countries. And, as labor is the largest element in cost in making pottery, and, as our competition is not with any one other nation, but is world-wide, we are working under a handicap that can never be overcome by any tariff legislation, nor by any improvement in our potting methods. It can be overcome only by a realization of the situation by labor which thus far has been notably absent, and by a degree of co-operation which we have long sought but not received.

The attitude of the Brotherhood during the last six or seven years, in its failure to recognize, and in its refusal to admit these fundamental conditions, has resulted in several things, among which are the following:

"The general strike of 1922.
"The sanitary strike of 1922.
"The loss to the Brotherhood of the sanitary industry.

"The loss to the Brotherhood of the Mt. Clemens Pottery Company.

"The loss to the Brotherhood of the Lenox, Inc.

"The loss to the Brotherhood of the Shavano Pottery Company.

"The dissipation of an immense defense fund previously owned by the Brotherhood.

"The permanent closing of several plants.

"The continued operation of several general ware plants of long standing at an actual loss.

"The depressing outlook for the future.

"Too Much Referenda," Report Says.

"Prior to this year the attitude of Brotherhood officials has not been largely responsible for consequences.

There has been too much referenda. Not the officers, but the rank and file, were responsible for the 1922 strike, also the withdrawal of Mt. Clemens, and the driving out of the sanitary companies. Under the rules and procedure of the Brotherhood they have been gradually wrecking themselves.

"The potters were among the first, if not the very first, of the important industries to adopt collective bargaining in dealing with labor problems. It proved successful for 20 years. But continued success depends upon the willingness of both sides to meet changing conditions as they arise. It is submitted the employers cheerfully and promptly met conditions during the period of inflation from November, 1916, to September, 1920. In that period wages were advanced seven times, or every time that the Brotherhood asked that the scale be reopened.

"From early in 1921 to the present time has been a period of deflation. In that time there were two decreases in wages in the fall of 1921, and one increase in January, 1923. There was one strike, and that was for an increase which the Brotherhood partly won.

"Therefore, it is submitted the Brotherhood has failed to meet changing conditions, with disastrous results. In that respect they have erected an insurmountable obstacle to the success of collective bargaining. During the past five years collective bargaining has been a failure in our industry.

Cites "Irritating Events."

"There was in the past some serious attempt upon the part of the Brotherhood officers to work with the labor committee in meeting changing conditions, and in solving new problems as they arose, but this co-operation has recently been absent. The present year has been distinguished by a series of irritating events, some of them of considerable consequence. Chronologically they were:

"First—The strike of the underglaze liners at the Shavano Pottery company.

"Second—The conference that resulted in the settlement of that strike.

"Third—The threatened strike of turners in the East Liverpool district in support of their demand for an increase in the rate for turning Barbara Jane cups, and the conference that resulted in granting them a 12 1/2 per cent advance.

"Fourth—The strike of the decalcomania workers at Scamell China company.

"Fifth—The demand of the manufacturers of china that the labor committee procure for them the same rates for underglaze lining as those established for the Shavano Pottery company and the Bailey-Walker company. Then the conference that ensued resulting in a general reduction in that department of 12 1/2 per cent.

"Sixth—The controversy at the Shavano Pottery company as to whether common labor should be permitted to place green ware without saggers on tops of tunnel kiln cars in spaces where saggers could not be fitted. A conference on the subject having failed to reach an agreement, the Brotherhood members at Shavano were ordered to strike. The Shavano accepted the challenge, declared they were forever through with the Brotherhood, and that in future their plant would be operated non-union.

"Seventh—The strike of handle makers and cutters in the East Liverpool district.

"These incidents involved many tedious conferences between representatives of the labor committee and Brotherhood executives, backed up by large delegations of union workers. A discussion of the merits of the several issues would be of value as a matter of record, but it would impose upon your patience. Therefore, this report will confine itself to discussion of those issues which deserve more than a passing mention.

"In its far reaching results the action of the Shavano Pottery company in breaking with the Brotherhood is of the first importance. In building up their organization independent of the union, the Shavano are meeting with notable success, not only in the speed with which jobs are being filled, but in the high quality of product created by so-called unskilled men and women. This committee goes on record as predicting the Brotherhood has lost the Shavano permanently.

Praises Frank Hutchins.

"In this incident the Brotherhood has made a fatal mistake. It was as serious a blunder as their achievement in voting Frank Hutchins out of their cabinet because he tried to head off the disastrous sanitary strike. In that case the rank and file were to blame, but in the Shavano case the officers were wholly responsible.

"The potters were among the first, if not the very first, of the important industries to adopt collective bargaining in dealing with labor problems. It proved successful for 20 years. But continued success depends upon the willingness of both sides to meet changing conditions as they arise. It is submitted the employers cheerfully and promptly met conditions during the period of inflation from November, 1916, to September, 1920. "Fifth—The demand of the manufacturers of china that the labor committee procure for them the same rates for underglaze lining as those established for the Shavano Pottery company and the Bailey-Walker company. Then the conference that ensued resulting in a general reduction in that department of 12 1/2 per cent.

"Sixth—The controversy at the Shavano Pottery company as to whether common labor should be permitted to place green ware without saggers on tops of tunnel kiln cars in spaces where saggers could not be fitted. A conference on the subject having failed to reach an agreement, the Brotherhood members at Shavano were ordered to strike. The Shavano accepted the challenge, declared they were forever through with the Brotherhood, and that in future their plant would be operated non-union.

"Seventh—The strike of handle makers and cutters in the East Liverpool district.

"These incidents involved many tedious conferences between representatives of the labor committee and Brotherhood executives, backed up by large delegations of union workers. A discussion of the merits of the several issues would be of value as a matter of record, but it would impose upon your patience. Therefore, this report will confine itself to discussion of those issues which deserve more than a passing mention.

"In its far reaching results the action of the Shavano Pottery company in breaking with the Brotherhood is of the first importance. In building up their organization independent of the union, the Shavano are meeting with notable success, not only in the speed this division of wages. Nor do the handle-makers have much to say about it. The rates of wages these helpers draw are largely controlled by their immediate employers, the handlers. There is no collective bargaining with their employees recognized by the turners and handlers of Local No. 10. These helpers have applied for admission to the Brotherhood but have been refused by No. 10.

"Finally the helpers rebelled. They demanded a larger share of their joint earnings. Their demands were denied, and then they struck. Some of the factories were not embarrassed by this situation. But with others it became a serious matter, for the reason that the boss handlers who attempted making their own handles were unable to deliver either quantity or quality. Eventually the strikers lost out as they could get no consideration from either the Brotherhood or from the boss handlers, and they had no funds with which to carry on the struggle. One by one they wandered back to their old jobs under the old wages and conditions.

Outlines Labor Committee's Duty.

"The foregoing is a mere statement of fact without comment. You must draw your own parallel. You must decide for yourselves whether the Brotherhood in demanding for themselves the right to organize, and the right of collecting bargaining, are consistent in refusing these privileges to the men who work for them. You have also a right to your own opinion as to whether a division of wages on the basis of two-thirds and one-third is altogether fair.

"In several of these joint discussions a point arose which does not appear to be understood by our membership or by Brotherhood officials. It should be emphasized. It is that neither the labor committee nor any standing committee is obligated to deal with controversies over wages in any department if the rates of wages in that department are not specified in the wage agreement. This applies notably to the decorating department. The rates paid in that department are as various as there are members in our association. No two are alike, nor even similar. They are governed partly by local conditions and partly by shop conditions. They do not bear the semblance of uniformity, nor can they, for obvious reasons, be made uniform.

"The duty of the labor committee is to legislate a wage agreement from time to time covering only those departments where uniformity is possible. Their responsibility extends to no department whose wage rates and working conditions are not clearly defined between the covers of the wage agreement. The duty of standing committees is to interpret the letter and the spirit of the wage agreement. They have neither authority nor responsibility in connection with the arbitration of disputes arising in the decorating department, nor elsewhere, unless specifically covered by the agreement. It is true that the labor committee and the standing committee have at times lent their good offices in the adjustment of such disputes, but these facts were purely voluntary contributions in the interest of peace. They were by no means compelled to take such part. In event of failure to agree in such cases no department, nor the workers in any department controlled by the agreement, may become involved in sympathetic action, or otherwise, without illegal infraction of the agreement.

Shenango Strike.

"Such disputes lie wholly between the individual employer and the individual workers. Neither side may officially demand the intercession of their principals, the U. S. P. A. or the N. B. of O. P., and nothing must be done to interfere with the contractual relations of those two bodies.

"Extended reference has been made to this situation only because during this year the Brotherhood administration has with persistence tried to compel the labor committee to take official cognizance of disputes in the decorating department. In the case of the strike of underglaze liners at the Shavano the Brotherhood administration went to the limit of a violation of the agreement by ordering a strike of kilnmen and all others working under the union agreement in sympathy with these liners, who were working under no agreement whatever with the U. S. P. A. They could have been further off the track if they had called a strike of jiggermen and dippers at the Shavano because the firm had a labor dispute with the carpenters and bricklayers constructing an addition to their plant.

"The expiration of the 1926 agreement on October 1, last, and the signing of a new agreement on about the same terms for another two years, with the usual reservations, were incidents of 1928. The manufacturers stated their position and what they desired to obtain in a new agreement in a communication of June 22 addressed to the Brotherhood. On July 17 the Brotherhood submitted a list of 25 requests for higher wages and easier conditions. There was a more or less perfunctory discussion of the joint proposals had at a conference held at the Chalfonte hotel, Atlantic City, from August 14 to August 17. The suggestions from both sides were withdrawn and the previous agreement substantially renewed.

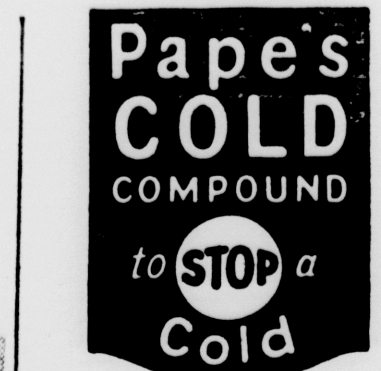

"The arguments at that conference were devoid of interest. In that respect it was in striking contrast to the conference of other years. The labor committee knew the Brotherhood were not sincere in their demands. They were too much out of order to command the support of even the most radical. Our committee also knew that the Brotherhood conferences were so organized that any arguments advanced in support of our proposals would prove futile. Our committee knew that the result was a foregone conclusion, however disappointing it might prove to the U. S. P. A. Therefore, the inevitable was accepted and embodied in a short agreement.

"After the foregoing report was written there have been unofficial conferences between members of the executive board of the Brotherhood and the labor committee chairman. Assurances were given by the Brotherhood officials of a desire to deal liberally with new issues as they may arise, and upon all questions of interest to the industry as a whole. Their expressions were encouraging."

Yanks, Red Sox And Nats Reported In Three-Way Player Deal

Huggins Seeking Infielder

Class AA Leagues Reach Agreement on Draft.

By Davis J. Walsh.
TORONTO, Ontario, Dec. 6.—New York, Boston and Washington were alleged here to be on the verge of a big three-way deal as the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues resumed its convention today with the terrible draft question blowing its fevered breath on the learned and well informed assemblage. Details of the trade were lacking as usual, which forcibly reminded one of the draft situation because it was so different. The latter was as full of details as a window cleaner's bucket.

Ossie Bluege to Yanks?
All any one could testify about the mooted trade was that the Yankees must emerge from same with a third baseman. Naturally, the boys being notoriously accommodating with other people's property, staked them to Ossie Bluege, of the Senators, and in the light of future developments, this may so be. So much for that.

The draft will get the airing of its career today when the matter will be considered from several standpoints, all highly unsatisfactory to the faction not concerned with their provisions, herein after to be known as "the other guy."

The class AA leagues, namely the American Association, the International and the Pacific Coast league reached an agreement on what they felt would consider a proper draft and among other things their plan suggests the dissociation of major league clubs from any and all minor league franchises.

In other words they would outlaw Branch Rickey's "chain store" system in Rochester, Houston and other points and make Bill Wigley sell himself right out of Los Angeles.

However, the class AA leagues are all heart, even when their mood is capricious. They will give Rickey and Wigley and major league clubs in general a period of three years in which to effect this minor change in their daily routine. It is understood, they say, that Judge Landis favors this proposal. Who understands that? The class AA leagues, of course. They understand everything, even the draft situation itself.

Other Draft Plan Phases.
Other phases of the AA proposal, in addition of the Hendy Killilea plan, calls for the following:

Sand lot and college ball players developed in class AA ranks not to be subject to draft for a period of four years; players sent back to the class AA leagues by the majors not to be subject to draft for a period of two years; the so-called "universal draft," to go into operation if these features are accepted by the majors and the latter agree to the raising of the draft price on AA players to $16,000.

That is that one. Here is another. It is sponsored by Judge W. G. Bremham, of the Piedmont league, and calls for a comprehensive widening of all draft restrictions "in order that ball players are not made into serfs."

Among the amendments proposed are these:
The raising of the draft price to $7,500 for a class AA league; $5,500 for class A; $3,500 for class B; $2,000 for class C; $1,500 for class D. The price for the selected player is to be paid in full immediately the deal is closed. One must only be selected from each club in the class AA and class A leagues and no club to be allowed to cancel its selection. Also, no players without previous professional experience to be signed by the major

Major-Minor Buckeye Cage Deals Made at Candidates Toronto Meet Hard at Work

Big Leaguers Trade Places With Youngsters 'Coming Up.'

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 6.—A flock of former big leaguers will cavort in minor league pastures next season while youngsters from the minors will attempt to fill their berths on the major circuits, as the result of numerous deals swung at the convention here of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

The Los Angeles, Portland and San Francisco Mission clubs of the Coast league swung deals with major leaguers. Los Angeles bought two pitchers from the Phillies, namely August Walsh and Russell Miller. Portland purchased Outfielder Art John, also from the Phillies, and Pittsburgh sold Eddie Mulligan, infielder, to the Missions.

Walsh and Miller are recruits. Mulligan and John are veterans who have been in and out of the major leagues several times.

Bernie Nels, former outfielder of Brooklyn Dodgers and Boston Braves, was sold to the Cincinnati Reds by the Seattle club. The sale price was not announced.

Stirling Strycker, former major league pitcher, was transferred from Buffalo to Reading in a straight play-off deal for "Slicker" Parks. Another deal sent the veteran Jimmy Zina, the iron man pitcher, to Cleveland from Kansas City. The latter got Outfielder George Gerkin, two other players, as yet unnamed, and cash.

Another Association club, Toledo, fell heir to Howard Freigan, the infielder. Freigan was transferred from the Boston Braves as part of the deal whereby the Braves acquired Heinie Mueller, outfielder, and Luke Urban, catcher, last summer from Toledo.

Then the Boston Red Sox and the St. Paul club went into action. The latter sent Alex Gaston, the catcher who once was the property of the Giants and other big league clubs, and Russ Scarratt, infielder, to the Red Sox. In return, the latter gave up Slim Harris, pitcher, and Infielder Rogell.

Another transaction witnessed the sale of Otis Carter, former outfielder of the Giants, and George Milstead, former Chicago pitcher, from Toledo to Nashville.

The Louisville club finally reported that it had signed a manager, after several days of futile dickerings with Bert Neihoff and Nick Allen. The compromise man turned out to be Allan Sothorn, former St. Louis pitcher.

Leagues, except college players.

Leagues to have title to or control of the following number of players:

Major leagues, 40 players to be reduced to 25 active players between June 15 and August 31; class AA, 35 players to be reduced to 25 active players thirty days after season's opening to August 25; class A, 30 players to be reduced to 23 twenty days after season's opening until August 25; class B, 25 players to be reduced to 16 under much the same conditions; class C and D, 14 players from twenty days after opening.

Until August 25; Also 20 players from August 26 to January 1 and unlimited from that time until 20 days after season's opening.

The selections to be made on the following system:
All class C and D leagues levied upon without restriction; players to be subject to draft whose contracts were assigned under this condition; no other player to be subject to selection until he has had four years' experience, if drafted from AA; three years if drafted from class A; two years if drafted from class B.

18 Games On Highs' Cage Bill

Potters to Launch Campaign With Rochester Dec. 21.

A schedule of 18 games, 11 of which will be home contests, has been chalked up by Faculty Manager J. M. Decker for East Liverpool high school cagers.

The campaign opens December 21 with Rochester, Pa., here and will close February 23.

Tentative dates were planned for March 1 and March 2, one of these for a New Philadelphia engagement here and the other for a battle with East Palestine there. But, according to Decker, the district tourney games are billed to start that week and, as a result, these two engagements will likely have to be scratched off.

The Barracks gym at New Concord, where the tournament has been held in recent years burned to the ground last spring, leaving district tourney contenders without suitable accommodations. As a result, it is proposed to divide the district into northern and southern sections, each section holding its own tournament and the winners meeting the following week in the finals for the district championship.

The card has been completed with the exception of the February 23 date. Today, however, Decker received a letter from Cambridge school officials in which the latter asked for that selfsame date at East Liverpool and a January date in Cambridge. The schedule being filled it will be impossible to give Cambridge a January date but Decker proposes to make the Quensey contains an attractive offer for a game here to wind up the regular bill.

Season tickets can be procured Monday from Decker. It is estimated that 50 orders for the $5.00 ducats have already been filed.

Decker and Coach Joe Hurst propose a slight change in the floor marking in the gymnasium, to decrease the width by just a few feet, and make it possible to install two additional rows of seats, increasing the seating capacity by approximately 90, all of which would be choice seats.

If this plan is followed, scorers, timers and substitutes of both teams would be situated on the row of seats on the alley side of the gymnasium.

New Philadelphia is on the schedule for the first time in several years. Rochester is coming back after a long absence and Etta, Pa., makes its initial bow to Potter court fans. The schedule, in all, promises some attractive entertainment.

Dec. 21—Rochester, here.
Dec. 22—Alummi, here.
Jan. 4—At Youngstown East.
Jan. 5—Etta, Pa., here.
Jan. 11—At Salem.
Jan. 12—Akron East, here.
Jan. 18—Stenbenville, here.
Jan. 19—Marietta, here.
Jan. 25—At Bellaire.
Jan. 26—Martins Ferry, here.
Feb. 1—At New Philadelphia.
Feb. 2—Canton McKinley, here (varsity and reserves).

Larkins Started Fesler on All-American Road With Sock on Nose Before Tiger Tilt

DICK LARKINS, tackle on the Ohio State football team, is the original "Fesler for All-American" man.

It was the morning of the Ohio State-Princeton game that Larkins officially and formally nominated his good pal, Wesley, for the greatest of football honors.

Here's how it happened: Larkins, who comes from East Liverpool, and Fesler, another of the Youngstown Feslers who has made good at Ohio State, are almost inseparable.

The night before the Princeton battle they were guests at the home of Ralph Wolf, 2638 N. Fourth street. Larkins awakened that Saturday morning and he proceeded to advise Fesler that it was time all All-American ends were up and doing.

"Go out there and make yourself an All-American today," ordered Larkins. "And I'll help you," he added. So saying, Larkins playfully socked Fesler on the nose.

Got Bloody Nose.
For almost an hour Fesler, Larkins and Wolf worked frantically to stop the flow of blood, which streamed from the flanker's nose.

That was the beginning of the "Fesler for All-American" movement. It gained impetus that afternoon when Feb. 9—At Stenbenville.

Feb. 15—Bellaire, here.
Feb. 16—Wellsville, here.
Feb. 22—Salem, here.
Feb. 23—Open.

Wesley Fesler went forth and battled, while Grantland Rice and other experts kept a keen eye on his movements.

Ohio State's latest All-American is different. He is almost one of those story book heroes, which inspire the younger generation to the deeper and finer things of life.

He had no bad habits. He doesn't swear. He is the leader of the George P. Lewis Sunday school class at Central Christian church, Youngstown. His athletic prowess is the result of long years of training and careful living. And he is an A student in the college of engineering, which alone qualifies him as an A student.

Wesley comes from a family of athletes, two of his brothers, Ray and Don, being Ohio State team members before him. Ray was captain of the Buckeye baseball team one season. All are members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Wesley is 20 years old, weighs 173 pounds, is 5'11 1/2" tall and is a blond. His football career began at Youngstown South, where he was too small to make the team his sophomore year. But his junior year he played at guard and center, and his senior year he played at tackle.

Then he entered Ohio State. H. G. Olsen assigned him a guard place on the Buckeye freshmen grid team. But Dr. Wilco made an end out of him when he reported for varsity.

CHRISTNER GETS SHARKEY SCRAP

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Promoter Tex Rickard today confirmed the announcement of Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, that the Boston heavyweight would fight K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, at Madison Square Garden in January. Christner, who is 35 years old, jumped into prominence by his eight-round knockout victory over Knute Hansen in Cleveland on Tuesday night.

White defeated Fardell in last night's three-cushion billiard tourney match at the Club Billiard parlors. The count was 35 to 29.

White turned in high run of five.

Thrilling story of love of two girls for the same man

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

"Yes I did. I'm sick and tired of seeing you fall asleep every two minutes. Can't you keep awake at all?"

"I'm awake, wide awake—perfectly wide awake!" This time he snored, and with a short of disgust she went into the pantry and looked at the top shelf, where, hid den behind the canned tomatoes, she had hidden a squat green bottle. She had found it in the cellar, in a dark, dusty corner. Four bottles, just alike. Neatly arrang ed, one behind the other, flanked by mildewed jelly marked "Plum, 1897," and a stone crock of something that once upon a time was apple butter. Somebody's forgotten hoard, Abner's mother's, most likely. "Well, I'll be good in case of sickness."

She wasn't sick, exactly, but she wasn't well, either. How could anyone be well, with Abner looking like a corpse one minute, and snoring fit to kill the next? So she had opened the first bottle, "to quiet the nerves," and then the next, and now only one was left.

"If I had a doctor it's just what he'd prescribe," she told herself, pouring a little into an egg cup. And I ought to have a doctor, I'm that nervous, only Abner is get ting so stingy I hardly have the strength to fight for one!"

Crystal wouldn't have recognized her mother if she had come upon her suddenly in the pantry, and seen this old woman with her bloated face and unkempt hair, holding the egg-cup in her trembling hands. Adeline Garroty Haines, who a few short months ago had been almost young!

But Crystal wasn't there to see. No one but Abner, and Abner didn't count.

Sometimes Adeline turned from her mirror with loath ing for herself. She would pat her double chin, pull the sagging contours of her face upward. "If anything hap pens to Abner, I'll have plenty to do with. I'll have my face lifted, lots of women do. And I'll die!"

But no use bothering now. Time enough . . . later. "If anything happens to Abner . . ." "After Abner's gone . . ." It was her consolation at first. She search ed his face avidly for signs of "something" happening . . . the man couldn't last forever. She read what the fat brown doctor look had to say about apoplexy. He had all the symptoms.

For a while she was happy. Planning. Planning great things. But the habit grew, she began to plan in the night, after the lights were out. Sleep went away. She lay panting and tossing in the dark . . . To wake and find him dead beside her, his jaw fallen, his face gray . . .

Sometimes she would wake up screaming, the rattle of the hearse in her ears, the feel of clammy flesh upon her.

"What's the matter, Adeline?" he would ask, startled. And she couldn't tell him. She could never tell any one. But the peach brandy helped a little, and wait ing for Crystal's letters kept her mind partially off her troubles.

"Dear mama,

Hope you are well. I am fine, and doing well at school. Everything is high, I simply have to have more money. If you don't want to send it, all right, only let me know, because I am going to get it from somebody, or know the reason why.

I suppose Haines will live forever. I'll bet if I was in your shoes I could raise some money. I'd get it out of him, or take it out of his hide. Will write soon and tell you all the news.

Your loving daughter,

Crystal.

"P. S. I have a couple of hundred dollars worth of bills, and I need money besides."

Adeline carried that last letter around with her, and the crisp gold lined envelope cracked in her bosom.

"I gotta get it out of him somehow," she whispered to herself. She had gone through his pockets while he slept, but what did he have? A few nickels.

"I gotta find some way!"

Old Man Haines snored in his rocker by the stove. Adeline listened, hating him, turning it over and over in her mind.

CHAPTER 32.

The old man woke to find Adeline's arms around him. He saw that her yellow hair was frizzed, her face was powdered and rosy, and she was wearing the dress he had always liked, the lavender voile with the lace trim ming.

"Have a nice nap?" she was asking.

He patted her hand. "Yes, pretty nice." After a while he said, "You're all fixed up, ain't you?"

She reddened. "I'd be fixed up all the time if I was equal to it. I haven't been myself lately."

"Well, you're getting along, can't expect to be a young gal forever, Adeline. I guess you do the best you can. You suit me all right. The two of us kind of went crazy there when we first got married. But pshaw! No use being dressed up all the time. You can't keep up that foolishness forever. . . . Hand me a match, will you, Ade lina?"

She gave it to him and watched while he lit the pipe that had gone out while he slept, and leaned back in his chair, an expression of bland content on his wrinkled face.

He coughed, and she patted him on the back. "My big man smokes too much. Mestn't!" And all the while she was thinking—"I hope you choke to death—soon!" With all your talk about old, old, old, as I was your age! You can't kick off too soon to suit me—I hate you—I hate you!"

Her fat hands writhed in her lap. She could hardly bear to look at him. Oh why did I marry you? I only did it for Crystal, and she's left me, all on account of you—and that girl of yours—

Daphne. The very thought of her gave her strength to go on. Daphne! His child—the cause of all her troubles. Didn't she come between Crystal and Mc-Kevitt? Didn't Crystal begin to talk at school that very day? If it hadn't been for Daphne Crystal would be married now, with her picture in all the papers like Betty May Turner . . .

She began to talk very fast. "As I was saying, I haven't been myself. I'm far from a well woman. All alone in this house . . . I been too upset to do lots of little things I want to do for you, Abner. You ought to have a custard and think like that."

"Martha used to make a real nice custard pudding," he said reminiscently. "she called it floatin' island."

"Yes, I mean to make one soon. Everyone ever tasted my floatin' island said it was the best they ever ate." (I hate you—I hate you!)

And at last she got down to it. "I need a little money for myself, Abner. Some things I need. Two hundred anyway. I ought to have five hundred."

"Well see—"

"But now! I've got to have it now!"

He looked at her coldly, sucking on his pipe. His eyes were the eyes of an old man, who wants quiet. No flicker of interest in her carefully planned appearance, no consciousness of her palpitating nearness, not a trace of the old infatuation.

Every bit of color drained from Adeline's face. All her wiles were in vain, and she knew it. She was lost, defeated . . . Unless . . . unless . . .

She began to wheedle. "A big orchardist like you, you'd never miss a miserable couple of hundred—"

"His mouth shut like a trap. 'I haven't got it!'"

"Not in cash of course. His men never do have cash. But you can get it. Your credit—"

"I ain't one to borrow, least of all for luxuries."

"Luxuries! This is necessity—a matter of life or death—"

"I guess Crystal ain't dying," he said stubbornly, "or starving neither. If she is she can come home. I said when she went away that I didn't have money for fancy art work, and I meant it. Now I don't want to hear any thing more about it."

Her eyes narrowed, she could hear her hoarse breath ing all over the room—"I didn't say it was for Crystal," she said thickly.

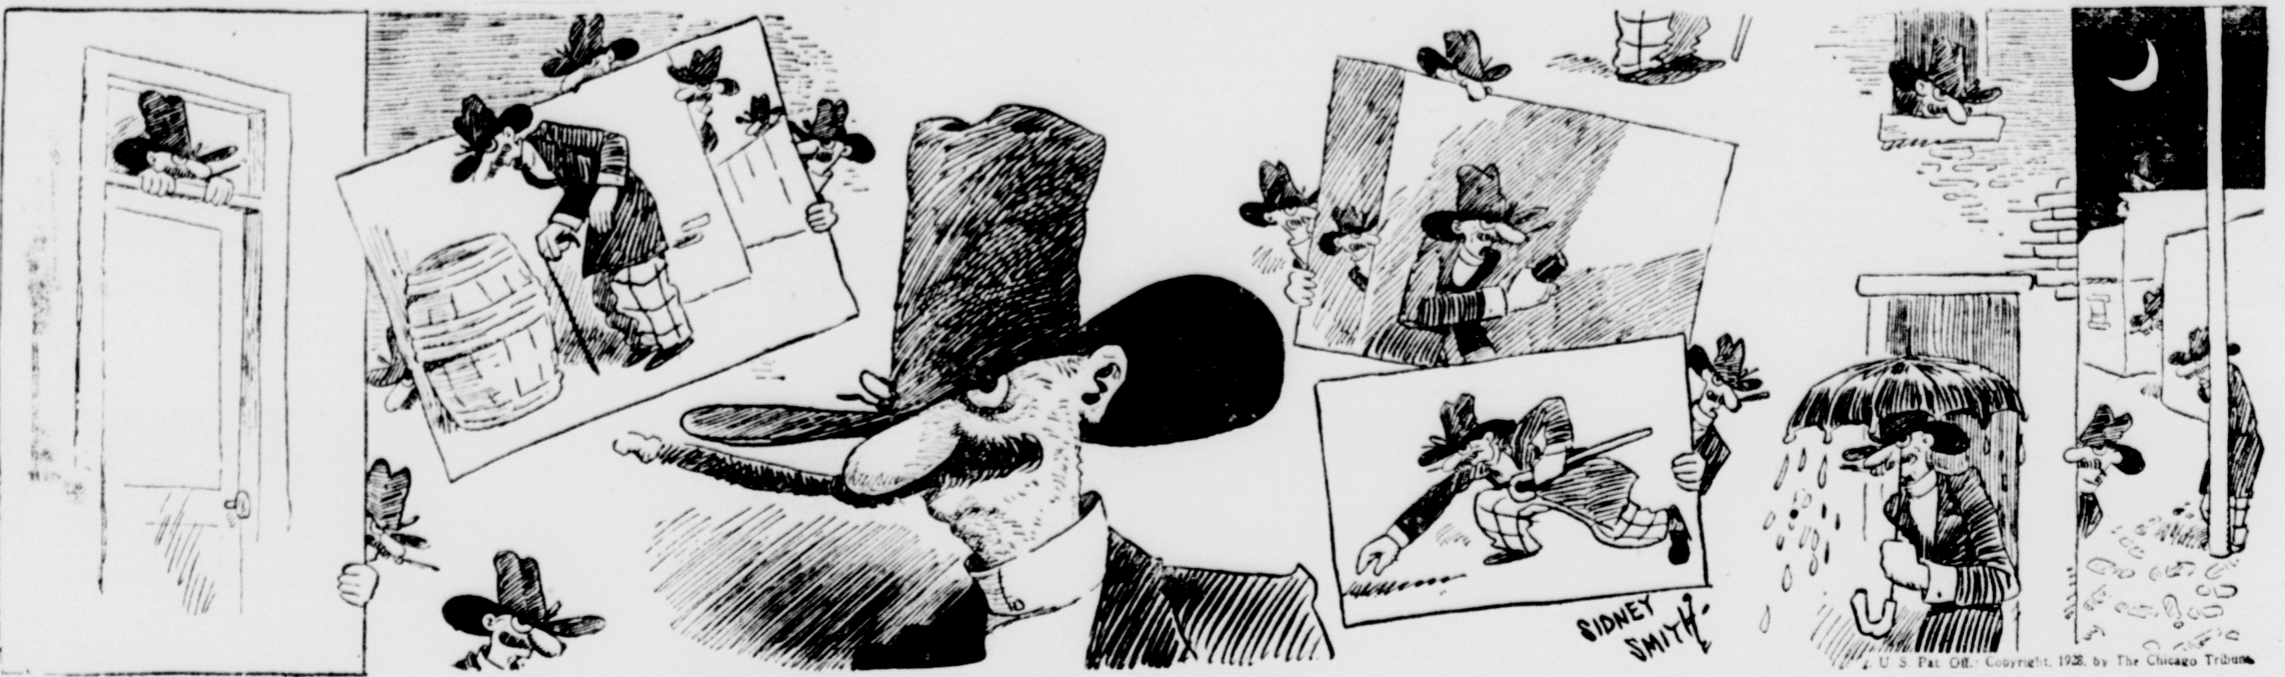

"You don't have to, I can tell just by lookin' at you. You got a certain peculiar look on your face, kind of crazy-like when you want something for that girl. Well you won't get it." With a snort he reached for the eve ning paper, pretending to read.

"Put suppose it wasn't Crystal, suppose it was your girl?"

"Eh?"

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

DOCTOR SHOWS QUICKEST WAY TO END HEAD COLDS

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief
—Then Cold Just Disappears
When Treated This Way

Neglecting even the slightest colds is sure to cause needless misery and may risk pneumonia. So doctors are now recommending a method that is giving quick, sure relief—not only in extreme hospital cases but in vast numbers of homes in East Liverpool and vicinity.

Miss Edith Dennis, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so bad she called her doctor who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, terpin hydrate, etc.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth. Relief began instantly and in an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion in her nose passages and chest. When she awoke next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely.

Notes: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This hospital-certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps get rid of congestion, reduce fever and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At all drugists—60c and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

1930 ISSUES OF SECURITIES PASS BILLION

Secretary Mellon Outlines Plans of U. S. Treasury.

DEBT REDUCED
Report Refers to Drug Traffic and Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Reporting to congress on the state of the government's finances, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon indicated that the treasury probably would issue new securities totalling $1,000,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, and that aggregate issues of the 1929 year would be $2,207,568,900.

The largest issues of the current year result from the refunding of the Third Liberty loan of more than a billion dollars. Retirements of debt in 1929 were estimated at $2,818,600,000 and $1,642,500,000 in 1930.

The gross debt was reduced in the year ending June 30 by $905,883,000, standing June 30 at $17,694,290,000.

Foreign Debts.
Mellon recommended to congress the settlement of the Austrian debt by an agreement reached a few days ago so that Austria may obtain a new reconstruction loan in which private American capitalists will participate. Details of the agreement will be submitted to congress at once, in which it will be provided that the obligation to the United States is subordinated, as to payment, to the prospective loan.

Adjustment of the Greek debt likewise was recommended. Mellon asking authority to advance the Greek government slightly over $12,000,000 addition. Greece originally was granted a $48,236,000 loan by United States, but advances amounted to but $13,000,000. That government has refused to fund the debt until additional advances are made.

Mellon asked for authority to exempt further issues of securities of government from the surtax as well as the normal tax, declaring that enactment of such an amendment would not interfere with the subsequent adoption of a constitutional amendment permitting the federal and state governments to tax so-called tax-exempt securities.

"Pending enactment of such an amendment there is no reason why the treasury department in marketing securities should be at a disadvantage compared with states, or why there should be discrimination against individual investors who desire to acquire U. S. government securities," Mellon said.

A recommendation for authority to authorize higher standards for financial requirements of surety companies writing bonds in favor of United States and adequate and satisfactory control of records pertaining to these companies.

Drug Traffic.
Mellon described international agreements reached with France, Great Britain, Germany, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Spain, Netherlands, Japan, the Free City of Danzig and Greece, whereby there is being made an exchange of information relative to the narcotic traffic.

In describing the fight against the drug traffic Mellon said that several factors have attracted the "most astute international criminals" to the business of drug smuggling.

Prohibition Controlled.
Mellon passed over prohibition enforcement with a few paragraphs but indicated that diversion of industrial alcohol is under control and is no longer the major problem in enforcement.

"Illicit manufacture of spirits from sugars and grain is the principal source of supply of the domestic market," Mellon said. "The investigative forces of the prohibition bureau have been directed against the large commercial operators with the result that the seizures of illicit distilleries are smaller as regards the size of the unit captured."

"This is indicative of the breaking up of the larger and profitable illicit manufacturing operations."
Mellon said that foreign governments are cooperating to prevent smuggling of liquor. For instance, he explained, only 5,000,000 gallons of liquors were identified in foreign ports as destined for the smuggling trade presumably bound for the United States in the year ending June 30, as compared to 14,999,000 gallons the preceding year.

Farm Banks Solvent.
As to the farm loan system, Mellon said that the board had been reorganized and that most of the banks are in good condition. As to farms he said that there is evidence that a bottom of low prices has been reached and that a gradual and steady improvement in the situation may be expected. Three Joint Stock Land banks are still in the hands of receivers.

Mellon suggested that congress decide whether the national bank currency is to be maintained indefinitely as a part of the national monetary system. In that case, he added, the treasury would be prepared to reduce the sizes of these notes to conform with the new size money to be issued next July.

Three railways are to be built in Uruguay at a total cost of $20,600,000.
